EMPLOYEE'S GUIDE

What is workplace giving?

Workplace giving is a broad term that includes payroll giving, donation matching, workplace fundraising, general volunteering and skilled volunteering.

Giving back can be a fun and rewarding part of everyday work life and company culture. Both the level of impact and how you choose to be involved are entirely up to you.

Why get involved?

Make a difference

How payroll giving works

Payroll giving is an easy and convenient way to donate directly from your pre-tax salary, making it a cost-effective and efficient way to give back to those in need.

With minimal administrative effort, contributions are processed through your employer's payroll system, allowing you to donate to The Salvation Army seamlessly while also receiving the tax benefit upfront.

Benefits:

- 🛡️ Effortless giving – automatic payroll deductions
- 🛡️ Instant tax benefit – pre-tax donations reduce taxable income immediately with no need to keep tax receipts
- 🛡️ Sustained support – regular giving helps The Salvation Army plan and deliver long-term services
- 🛡️ Donation matching – some employers match donations, amplifying your impact
- 🛡️ Feel great – knowing you're making a meaningful difference through regular payroll giving

Making small, regular donations to The Salvation Army through payroll giving provides an easy way for you to help change the lives of Australians.

Speak to your employer about boosting your giving by matching your contribution.

How your support can help

$5 can help provide nourishment to one person doing it tough with healthy fruit and veg for a day, so they don't go hungry when the household budget is tight

$10 can help a person in crisis make it to vital medical or counselling appointments, and by contributing to the cost of transport

$20 will bring the comfort of a blanket to someone experiencing homelessness, helping to keep them warm on cold nights

$50 will help pay for an hour-long session with a financial counsellor and help a person build financial stability for their future

Ready to make an impact?

Speak with your payroll giving representative today to start making a difference.

Your generosity has the power to impact the lives of Australians experiencing hardship. Thank you for choosing to make a difference.

Our commitment to inclusion

The Salvation Army Australia acknowledges the Traditional Owners of the land on which we meet and work and pay our respect to Elders past, present and future.

We value and include people of all cultures, languages, abilities, sexual orientations, gender identities, gender expressions and intersex status. We are committed to providing programs that are fully inclusive. We are committed to the safety and wellbeing of people of all ages, particularly children.
